

Fundamentally, we measure the difference between the brightness of SNe at low redshift (the “Hubble flow”) and at high redshift.

